Basket Raffle Fundraiser Appreciation

I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to everyone who contributed to making our Basket Raffle Fundraiser such a memorable and successful event. There was so much excitement as the winners were announced, and it truly was an evening filled with fun and community spirit. A special thank you goes to Kimberly Turner, Laura Delk, Megan Brown, Rachael Rios, Brichelle Wootton and Caitlin Wong for their dedication, help, and support with this wonderful fundraiser. It is the commitment and involvement of parents like them that truly strengthen and unite our community. A big Thank you to everyone who donated Candy, Halloween Treats and Basket Items!

Share Lunch Feast

Tuesday, Nov. 24 is our Thanksgiving Share Lunch Feast. Please look for sign-ups to be posted. Each child should bring their favorite food to share with their class. No individual lunches will be needed that day. Food should be chosen by the children. Sharing is difficult for young children and will serve as a small step toward understanding the good feeling that can happen when you share with others. Please have food prepared and ready to be warmed. Write your child's name on all bags or containers. Thank you for your participation and continued support.

Vacation Form

As a reminder, all students receive one-week vacation credit each year and a second week at half off. Full tuition is due regardless of holidays, scheduled non-holidays, the week after graduation in June, 2nd week in August, Christmas week and illness. You may use your vacation credit any time during the school year or summer by sending an email (faithdcpreschool@ymail.com) or leaving a written note in the tuition mailbox. Please return the attached vacation form asap. Thank you

Building A Foundation for Positive Discipline

Discipline is teaching children right from wrong and teaching how to solve problems and make wise choices.

1. Have Reasonable Expectations

Just because toddlers will share a cookie with you doesn't mean they understand the concept of sharing; they are learning, and it will take lots of practice and good modeling from adults before sharing becomes a daily habit. A school-age child can understand why she can't leave her bike in the middle of the driveway. Putting a bike away is reasonable.

2. Choose Issues Wisely

Every family has its issues. Some families are firm about bedtime. Others about eating or keeping the house neat and clean. Choose issues that really matter in your family: it's not helpful when the family environment becomes a battlefield for every behavior. Think up consequences when infractions do occur and then be consistent.

3. Match The Discipline To The Behavior

Discipline is a more powerful teaching tool if the discipline is somehow related to the offense. It's upsetting if your child throws a tantrum in the grocery store when you won't buy a pack of gum, but is it helpful to take away TV for a week? Not giving in to the purchase and coming straight home instead of stopping at the park is directly related to the behavior.

4. Give Fair Warning

Especially for young children who are just getting the hang of behaving properly, It's best to give them a reminder about what will happen if they break the rule. "Remember the rule; you can color on the paper. If you color on the table again, the colors will be put away."

5. Follow Through On What You Say

If you don't do what you say you will, you're teaching your child that rules aren't to be taken seriously. Be fair but be consistent.
